

Research Highlights

Identifying Rational Types in Unknown Environments under an Indirect Dynamic Mechanism

Humberto Bernal

- A dynamic indirect mechanism is designed for environments with observational pooling.
- The MDG process models execution errors under maximum entropy constraints.
- Bayesian learning is shown to converge almost surely to the true rational type.
- The perfect Bayesian equilibrium is shown to guarantee sequential implementability.
- Deep learning networks approximate the captor value function to solve the game.